

Insights from the interview

- People feel good about the idea of giving advice, and they would do it for free
- People would be willing to ask advice from someone more experienced in their career area
- They share career information with their friends from the same field